

FOR SALE.

TWELVE HORSE POWER

PORTABLE ENGINES,Built by MCKAY & ALDUS, BOSTON, MASS.The Collie's Engine Company of the latter city have the largest stock of portable engines in the country.
They will supply you with all the parts necessary for your engine.The Boiler is made of a larger capacity than any other Portable Engine of the same sized Cylinder.The several effects of the very last of King Frost are still to be seen in the English Channel, and the French coast, in the Bay of Biscay, and the Channel Islands, and the British Isles. For particulars see our issue of ALFRED H. RAYNS.
The English Channel is now open, and the French coast is also open, and at that examination, the wind is still blowing, and will be expected to continue so.

ALFRED H. RAYNS.

MCMULLEN, RYAN &amp; CO.

Machinists and Iron Founders

MANUFACTURERS OF

DRILLING TOOLS, IRON AND BRASS CASTINGSIRON AND COPPERCLEVELAND PIPE-PIPE.

Tubing Always on Hand.

SHOP ON

HOLMDEN FARM.

Our Friends in Cleveland, Ohio, and L. S. Holmden

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

COTTON

oil LEASES.

THE BRUNAGIN FARM OIL COMPANY

For jointing and oiling the lease of oil with leases.

RODOLFO LAND

Leasing or jointing oil wells. The Brunagin Farm
Oil Company, John Brunagin, President, 100 Main Street, Westfield, N. J., claim the best farm land and oil wells in Westfield, N. J.

The Miller Farm

Clark's Hill, with oil well, or about 1000 ft.
of oil well in Oil Creek, with a small oil well, with a well in Westfield, N. J.

The Miller Farm

Titusville Morning Herald.

TITUSVILLE, WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25, 1865.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Mr. HARRISON WOODS, who advertised a lost pocket-book containing $100, is informed that it has been returned to this office.

To CORRESPONDENTS.—No communication will be inserted in this Herald unless accompanied by a responsible name.

G. H. JONES & CO., opposite the Chase House, are agents for the sale of THE HERALD in Pitcairn City.

COURTROOM CEREMONIES.

Council sat pursuant to adjournment, Monday evening, Oct. 25.—F. W. A. Atwater presiding.

Present.—Moore, Ostrom, Custer, Abbott, Bartlett and McAllister.

The following bills were presented:

Bill of J. D. Golding, for one month's police duty, $80. Accepted and ordered paid.

Bill of B. W. Phillips for 200 loads of gravel.—Referred to Street Commissioner.

Bill of Dr. Varley, for medical attendance in small park, $450. A. Harwood, for services in same connection, $80.00. Both ordered paid.

Bill of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman, $80, for labor and materials in repairing lock-up. Ordered paid.

Moved and seconded that a wide walk six feet in width be constructed on Monroe street, from the railroad depot to Spring street, in conformity with tax-payers' petition. Adopted.

Moved that a sidewalk be constructed on the north side of West Main street, from Franklin to Monroe street, in conformity with petition of citizens. Laid over.

On motion of Mr. Abbott the resignation of J. H. Auger as Street Superintendent was accepted.

On motion of Mr. Abbott, C. M. Allen was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Council then adjourned on Monday evening, Oct. 26th.

The Manifesto of Oldsmar—Thrilling Adventure of Mr. Max Chaussey for His Life as a Robber and Escapes by the Hair on his Temple.

We were startled, from our propertys yesterday afternoon, by receiving a call from Mr. Max Chaussey Ley, a gentleman extensively known in this section and whose statements require authentication at the hands of any of his personal friends. Chaussey was in a reclining, sanguinary swoon, when he dropped into our sanctum, and so heavily puffed about the front-pieces that we had to open him like a sandwich and scrape off some of the mustard before we could identify him on sight.

"You have been waylaid on the Hickory Nut road," said we, glancing at him with apprehension. "You have killed Ingomar, the Barbarian, and you came here to tell us about it."

"Exactly so," said Chaussey, limping toward a chair. "I layed about two miles from Bunnier. I started in company with a Cracker Blower, but we heard that the Harbs were after us, and Blower wouldn't go on. Then you might have seen a solitary horseman, riding deliberately along, when he was suddenly confronted by 'a rogo in bream,' who jumped up from the underbrush, and presenting a couple of sweet potatoes and a half gross of penny candies, exclaimed, 'Halt, you Thasiusim, and hand over your stamp!' 'For God's sake, spare my life, and I'll give you every stamp I've got,' said Chaussey; and while ostensibly feeling for his stamp, he drew a billiard cue from his pocket, cracked it carefully at the butt, and then lit through the left break of the ruffian, pluming him to the earth like a pine-driver!

"I then put spurs to my horse and charged up the hill. Here I met another customer, whom I recognized as a Titusville faro dealer. I curled my mustaches fiercely in the corner of both eyes, and asked him if he wanted to 'blow against the tiger?' Harbs no, and I 'passed.' Looking back I saw him trying to pull the billiard cue out of the buckaner's body. Went on to the first derrick, sworn in a vigilance committee, and returned to the fatal spot. Found the cue layed off close to the ground; two or three strips of an old shirt, marked with internal Revenue stamps; a good deal of dirt lying in the road; several bushes growing near, and suspicious looking trees in the distance—but no body."

P.S.—Mr. Chaussey describes the appearance of the dastardly Indians, full, but they have been so frequently described before, that it is believed they can most readily be detected without further exposure. Any information concerning the dead Barbarian will be thankfully received by Max Chaussey.

Stephenson Farms.

Editors Morning Herald.—Your correspondents date their letters from all sorts of places, real and imaginary. Traveler's soap up and down for the great reservoir from which all these precious streams of flowing well originate. Each man who elevates his deckirk and drives his vertical tube, very expects to gather for himself from the central fountain, gaudy stores of garnished treasures.

Through the flowing wonders of Pitcairn darts all eyes to places of least importance, still the prospect is fair that the veritable Mecca of the Oil Regions will be found in this neighborhood. Pilgrims with rocking sleds clamber up the rough millefis, and every available monk has been prospected, explored, and now is occupied by towering derrikers. Nearly the whole farm has been leased, and active operations are going on toward the development of the territory. But a few weeks since the foolhardy person who had ventured to bury his pocket-book 40 rods depth on this farm, would have evaded the consequences of all oil adopts. But now the scruples for leases have absorbed the whole during the vicinity of the locality.

The Ocean Well is now plowing between two and three hundred barrels, and is increasing its yield. It flows spasmodically at intervals of a few seconds, very much in the style of the U. S. well, on Pitcairn. Wells are going down very rapidly on all the lots adjacent to the Ocean Well. In these "astenites" are selling at from $1200 to $1500 each according to the location and present state of development.

The well on No. 24, which lease is partly owned by residents of Titusville, is progressing with unusual rapidity. It is under the superintendence of Mr. K. Boyce, and is now being drilled at the rate of more than forty feet per day. For the twelve hours preceding last midnight 24 feet was drilled, and in the 24 hours ending today at noon, a depth of 45 feet has been gained.

The total depth of this well is now nearly five hundred feet, and other wells in the vicinity will also soon be ready for tubing.

Lessons on the Woods Farm opposite have been selling rapidly, and now command quite a large sum. The Stephenson farms is situated just between Bensenville and the best producing wells on Oil Creek, at Petroleum Centre. The step is in on the farm and recent developments show the banks of this stream to be excellent oil producing territory.

APPENDIX.

A NEW WELL ON THE HOMESTEAD FARM.—A new well called the Jersey Hilliard, was struck on Saturday afternoon last, on Lease No. 23, Homestead Farm, the property of the Republic Oil Co.

Titusville Dry Goods Market.

The rel's Dry Goods market continues brisk. The prices are about the same as our last quotations. The demand increases as winter approaches.

The following are a few of our quotations:

Muslin, bleached,	$4.45	40
Duckies,	$4.45	50
Merino, English,	1.50	25
Merino, French,	1.25	25
Silkies,	1.50	25
Cademers,	1.50	25
Ladie's cloaks,	15.00	65
Velvet, velvet furnished hoods,	5.00	18.00
Velvet shawls,	9.00	18.00
Silkies,	0.50	8.00
Silting,	0.50	15
White wool,	2.00	15
Hill gloves,	2.25	15
Handkerchiefs,	2.50	15
Blankets, white,	4.00	15
Blankets, colored,	2.50	15
Carpets, Brussels,	2.50	15
Carpets, linings, 5-ply,	2.50	15

The demand for sheetings, drapery, mercerized, delin's and prints continues active.

A few returns on the New York and Phila. paid. Blowers may not prove satisfactory to our July readers.

The most popular materials for winter wear are pongees, Highland cloths, serges, alpacas, poplins, reps, merinos, flannels, fustys or winceys. The latter are much worn both in Paris and London. They have been fitted to a considerable extent and bid fair to be fashionable for the walking and down-the-stairs attire.

Serge is another material very much in vogue abroad, and likely to be generally adopted in this country. It is of cotton and wool or all wool, with thread-like stripes crossing diagonally.

A new and very desirable material has been brought out for skating skirts. It is soft and thick, two yards wide, and of a gray color, striped with scarlet.

The latest imported morning robes are exceedingly rich and elegant. They are of green, blue, orange or violet grounds, with the most gorgeous Persian borders. The principal novelty about them is, that the waist is to be black, trimmed with bordering in the skirt.

The latest morn's are of light grounds, with various cross-tucks of black, or of a darker shade than the ground.

The new flannel shirtings of this season are very soft, fine, and exceedingly pretty.

Short stocks of thick, woolly-looking white cloth are very much admired. They are generally trimmed with black velvet or flounce. Checked cloths are trimmed with scarlet or blue cloth, cut out in bows, scalloped on each edge, and caught on the back with two rows of chain stitching, one of black and one of white.

Many of the velvet jester's are trimmed with gold fringe, arranged in a square form round the shoulders, and richly ornamented with heads and bands of lace, also richly worked with beads, in faulard round the waist with a fine lace border; or else like a rogo in bream.

The short stocks of thick, woolly-looking white cloth are very much admired. They are generally trimmed with black velvet or flounce. Checked cloths are trimmed with scarlet or blue cloth, cut out in bows, scalloped on each edge, and caught on the back with two rows of chain stitching, one of black and one of white.

Many of the velvet jester's are trimmed with gold fringe, arranged in a square form round the shoulders, and richly ornamented with heads and bands of lace, also richly worked with beads, in faulard round the waist with a fine lace border; or else like a rogo in bream.

The time is past when business men fear that the growth of Titusville is ephemeral, and the time will come when the town will be a power in itself.

The water-fall, though abandoned by some, is still very generally worn, but arranged rather higher on the head. It is generally imagined that a fine net, and among the news, we mean to have a fine net, will be set up with great success.

The newest opera-gowns are of silk material, striped or spotted with gold. Organza of white, striped with blue or white, and trimmed with silk piping at the ends of the spots.

The bonnets for the season are large in the crown, and very square, or else slightly raised. The brims are close, rather flat on top, with long straight sides. The caps are quite small, being nearly straight band. The new bonnets require skillful handling to hold well, and it is feared that amateur milliners will this season be sorely perplexed.

Long veils of lace, or organdy, contribute much to the prettiness and beauty of the tall bonnets and hats.

Round hats are considered indispensable for young ladies, and some quite novel shapes are among the late importations.

A tri-corner, three-cornered, or Gode Franchise, is made of velvet and trimmed with feathers.

Head dresses are all in the Greek style, either fillets of velvet studded with bows, or stars of gold, silver, or steel, or else they are hung with chains of gilt sequins. For full dress, these head-dresses or fillets are composed of delicate flowers, mounted on gilt stems, with green leaves edged and veined with gold. The artificial blending of gold, with the beautiful flowers and foliage, renders these collars perfectly charming.

DUKE RAILROAD COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN ROCHESTER AND THE OHIO REGIONS.—We publish, by request, the letter of a correspondent of the Rochester Express, which will be of interest to all residents of this section who had left Westen New York. The delay and inconvenience of taking the crenelated route to Buffalo has been a matter of general complaint. The travel from the oil regions in the direction of Central New York, and by the Central Railroad to the eastern States is immense, and the new line suggested would not be a good paying one. In this respect, Rochester would, also, in the event of a direct railroad communication, be largely the gainer.

Long veins of iron, or copper, contribute much to the prettiness and beauty of the tall bonnets and hats.

Round hats are considered indispensable for young ladies, and some quite novel shapes are among the late importations.

A tri-corner, three-cornered, or Gode Franchise, is made of velvet and trimmed with feathers.

Head dresses are all in the Greek style, either fillets of velvet studded with bows, or stars of gold, silver, or steel, or else they are hung with chains of gilt sequins. For full dress, these head-dresses or fillets are composed of delicate flowers, mounted on gilt stems, with green leaves edged and veined with gold. The artificial blending of gold, with the beautiful flowers and foliage, renders these collars perfectly charming.

Editors Morning Herald.

I am informed this morning that Mr. H. L. Brown, Manager of the Western Union Telegraph Office in this place, has resigned, to take effect the 1st of November. I hear many of the telegraph company express a deep regret at his leaving. Since his stay here he has always expressed a willingness to accommodate all his patrons, and at times when much discommoded himself. We do say the Company will regret his loss. May the young telegrapher have success wherever he may go.

A word in regard to Mr. Thomas J. Keech. Mr. Keech has also resigned. He established the post office in town, and I believe can say with safety, gave general satisfaction. Through some influence, the post office was changed, and Mr. Keech was assigned to the position of Assistant Postmaster. Things have gone on in their usual way, but we give all credit to Mr. Keech. We are, as well as the Post office Department, sorry to lose him. He is a young man of rare qualities.

Truly yours,

W. H. COOPER,
Editor, Oct. 18, 1865.

Designations.

PAUL, Oct. 18, 1865.

Editors Morning Herald.

I am informed this morning that Mr. H. L. Brown, Manager of the Western Union Telegraph Office in this place, has resigned, to take effect the 1st of November. I hear many of the telegraph company express a deep regret at his leaving. Since his stay here he has always expressed a willingness to accommodate all his patrons, and at times when much discommoded himself. We do say the Company will regret his loss. May the young telegrapher have success wherever he may go.

A word in regard to Mr. Thomas J. Keech. Mr. Keech has also resigned. He established the post office in town, and I believe can say with safety, gave general satisfaction. Through some influence, the post office was changed, and Mr. Keech was assigned to the position of Assistant Postmaster. Things have gone on in their usual way, but we give all credit to Mr. Keech. We are, as well as the Post office Department, sorry to lose him. He is a young man of rare qualities.

Truly yours,

W. H. COOPER,
Editor, Oct. 18, 1865.

Editors Morning Herald.

I am informed this morning that Mr. H. L. Brown, Manager of the Western Union Telegraph Office in this place, has resigned, to take effect the 1st of November. I hear many of the telegraph company express a deep regret at his leaving. Since his stay here he has always expressed a willingness to accommodate all his patrons, and at times when much discommoded himself. We do say the Company will regret his loss. May the young telegrapher have success wherever he may go.

A word in regard to Mr. Thomas J. Keech. Mr. Keech has also resigned. He established the post office in town, and I believe can say with safety, gave general satisfaction. Through some influence, the post office was changed, and Mr. Keech was assigned to the position of Assistant Postmaster. Things have gone on in their usual way, but we give all credit to Mr. Keech. We are, as well as the Post office Department, sorry to lose him. He is a young man of rare qualities.

Truly yours,

W. H. COOPER,
Editor, Oct. 18, 1865.

Editors Morning Herald.

I am informed this morning that Mr. H. L. Brown, Manager of the Western Union Telegraph Office in this place, has resigned, to take effect the 1st of November. I hear many of the telegraph company express a deep regret at his leaving. Since his stay here he has always expressed a willingness to accommodate all his patrons, and at times when much discommoded himself. We do say the Company will regret his loss. May the young telegrapher have success wherever he may go.

A word in regard to Mr. Thomas J. Keech. Mr. Keech has also resigned. He established the post office in town, and I believe can say with safety, gave general satisfaction. Through some influence, the post office was changed, and Mr. Keech was assigned to the position of Assistant Postmaster. Things have gone on in their usual way, but we give all credit to Mr. Keech. We are, as well as the Post office Department, sorry to lose him. He is a young man of rare qualities.

Truly yours,

W. H. COOPER,
Editor, Oct. 18, 1865.

Editors Morning Herald.

I am informed this morning that Mr. H. L. Brown, Manager of the Western Union Telegraph Office in this place, has resigned, to take effect the 1st of November. I hear many of the telegraph company express a deep regret at his leaving. Since his stay here he has always expressed a willingness to accommodate all his patrons, and at times when much discommoded himself. We do say the Company will regret his loss. May the young telegrapher have success wherever he may go.

A word in regard to Mr. Thomas J. Keech. Mr. Keech has also resigned. He established the post office in town, and I believe can say with safety, gave general satisfaction. Through some influence, the post office was changed, and Mr. Keech was assigned to the position of Assistant Postmaster. Things have gone on in their usual way, but we give all credit to Mr. Keech. We are, as well as the Post office Department, sorry to lose him. He is a young man of rare qualities.

Truly yours,

W. H. COOPER,
Editor, Oct. 18, 1865.

Editors Morning Herald.

I am informed this morning that Mr. H. L. Brown, Manager of the Western Union Telegraph Office in this place, has resigned, to take effect the 1st of November. I hear many of the telegraph company express a deep regret at his leaving. Since his stay here he has always expressed a willingness to accommodate all his patrons, and at times when much discommoded himself. We do say the Company will regret his loss. May the young telegrapher have success wherever he may go.

A word in regard to Mr. Thomas J. Keech. Mr. Keech has also resigned. He established the post office in town, and I believe can say with safety, gave general satisfaction. Through some influence, the post office was changed, and Mr. Keech was assigned to the position of Assistant Postmaster. Things have gone on in their usual way, but we give all credit to Mr. Keech. We are, as well as the Post office Department, sorry to lose him. He is a young man of rare qualities.

Truly yours,

W. H. COOPER,
Editor, Oct. 18, 1865.

Editors Morning Herald.

I am informed this morning that Mr. H. L. Brown, Manager of the Western Union Telegraph Office in this place, has resigned, to take effect the 1st of November. I hear many of the telegraph company express a deep regret at his leaving. Since his stay here he has always expressed a willingness to accommodate all his patrons, and at times when much discommoded himself. We do say the Company will regret his loss. May the young telegrapher have success wherever he may go.

A word in regard to Mr. Thomas J. Keech. Mr. Keech has also resigned. He established the post office in town, and I believe can say with safety, gave general satisfaction. Through some influence, the post office was changed, and Mr. Keech was assigned to the position of Assistant Postmaster.